BBAF Forum:

We've recently had several families (either whom are already BBAF members or whom have contacted us) that have learned that their child does NOT have Glutaric Acidemia. We've invited them to share their stories on our forum to help support and inform other families in their situation. Brandi McCormack will be acting as the Den Mother to this forum, offering support, information and suggesting resources for these families. If you don't already know Brandi's story, please check it out on our forum!

Laura Larks is our forum Den Mother and welcomes new members as they join the forum. Be sure to contact Laura and/or Brandi if you need their assistance connecting with other families with similar experiences, or have any other questions they can help you with! And, of course, we encourage you to continue sharing and posting on the forum to help reach new families and those not on Facebook! For those of you on Facebook, make sure you find our page! <https://www.facebook.com/BBAngelFoundation> We'd love to see you there!

"A Year In Pictures"

We would like to have our BBAF members that use Facebook join us starting Jan 1st in "A Year In Pictures." Each day post SOME kind of a picture (dog, baby, street, rain, food, just life in general) as we think it will be fun to share this and maybe we will get to know each other a bit more!

THANK YOU ALL, for your continued support of BBAF!
